Dimension IV - Madison Design Group consists of design professionals and technical support people, each of whom provides a unique contribution to our success, and includes licensed architects, professional engineers, interior designers, technicians, designers, and administrative personnel.

Dimension IV - Madison Design Group provides services to clients throughout the Midwest. We are licensed to practice in Wisconsin and 15 other states and have project experience across the country. One or more principals is always actively involved in the design of every project we undertake, which covers the spectrum of new construction, renovation, historic preservation, adaptive reuse, tenant build-outs, landscape architecture, engineering services, and interior design.
